The Marsden B-400 is an IP67 certified, Trade Approved stainless steel bench scale. The scale is easy to use, highly accurate and battery power means it can be used anywhere.

The scale's ruggedness and protection from moisture means it is perfect for use by fishmongers and brewers, as well as by food factories and industrial kitchens. It is a Trade Approved equivalent of our best-selling B-100 Bench Scale - and at an affordable price.

Easy to use and superb value for money

The B-400 is our most affordable Trade Approved, IP67 rated bench scale.

The scale features a stainless steel, wipe-down weighing pan which can be removed for easy cleaning, and the functions on the scale are easy to use.

The B-400 is powered by batteries so can be used wherever it's required. 4x AA batteries provide a minimum 40 hours' continuous use. The Tare function to remove unwanted weight, like a box and Hold function stabilises the weight reading.

IP67 protection against water and dust

IP67-certified protection means this stainless steel scale can handle being washed down, or used in locations where there may be some moisture or dust in the air.

Stainless steel scales are built to last longer than their mild steel or plastic equivalents – and they look the part, too.

Trade Approved: legal for use when buying or selling based on weight

Use the B-400 for determining the price of your goods by weight, accurately and legally.

Only those scales that are Class III Approved - or Trade Approved - can be used in the process of buying or selling of goods. Rigorous testing ensures the scale delivers repeatable weight readings and the customer receives value for money.
